

BNY Technology Overview

September 15, 2026

BNY Technology, with a multi-billion-dollar annual investment in technology and innovation, includes more than 12,000 technologists and developers globally who support the bank's role as a leading provider of clearing, payments, custody, and asset servicing solutions to the global financial markets.

Our teams of technologists and developers continue to innovate solutions that support BNY's role as a leading global financial services company serving institutions, corporations, and individual investors around the world.

The Java ecosystem remains a significant part of the technology stack across the BNY enterprise.

BNY is represented in the Java community by Java Champions Victor Grazi and Loiane Groner.
